

Is the camel conquering the world?

Author: Bernard Faye

Our project partner Bernard Faye (veterinarian, specialized in tropical veterinary medicine, PhD Paris University and HDR Montpellier University) wrote a journal article for Animal Frontiers about expansion of large camelids. Although their reputation as an animal of the nomads and for caravans of merchants recalls their mobility far exceeding that of other domestic herbivores, the use of this species for transportation and in animal agriculture remains confined to the deserts of northern Africa and Asia. Full article „Is the camel conquering the world?“ can be found on the link below.
